

Economic Research on Identity, Norms, and Narratives

ERINN 2020 Annual Meeting

Originally scheduled for May 1-2 2020.

Now being held virtually April 15-16 2021, 10am – 2:30 pm US East Coast time

Papers and presenters listed in random order.

Sessions to be organized and announced closer to the date.

“Tolerance and Compromise in Social Networks,” Garance Genicot, Georgetown University

“Racial Diversity, Electoral Preferences, and the Supply of Policy: the Great Migration and Civil Rights,” Marco Tabellini, Harvard Business School

“Scapegoating: Experimental Evidence,” Michal Bauer, CERGE-EI

“Narratives, Imperatives, and Moral Persuasion,” Roland Benabou, Princeton University

“Lords and Vassals: Power, Patronage, and the Emergence of Inequality,” Robert Akerlof, University of Warwick

“Saving the Planet? Values, Technology, and Politics,” Torsten Persson, Stockholm University

“Does Identity Affect Labor Supply?,” Suanna Oh, Columbia University

“Why Aren’t People Leaving ‘Janesville?’: Industry Persistence, Trade Shocks, and Mobility,” Mikhail Poyker, Columbia University

“In my backyard: Mineral resources and ethnic identity,” Victoire Girard, Nova SBE

“On the Joint Evolution of Culture and Institutions,” Alberto Bisin, NYU

“A Division of Laborers: Identity and Efficiency in India,” Guilhem Cassan, University of Namur

“A Theory of Chosen Preferences,” Alejandro Martínez-Marquina Stanford University

“Recoupling Economic and Social Progress,” Dennis Snower, University of Oxford

“Participatory Theater Empowers Women: Evidence from India,” Karla Hoff, World Bank